

Executive Coach and Facilitator, Shanghai

About this Coach

She is an executive coach and facilitator with leadership experience in global financial services, electronics manufacturing and management consulting. She leads many successful cross-functional business transformation initiatives for corporate clients – a pivotal experience which ignited her passion for helping leaders and organizations grow towards realizing their unlimited potential.

As an executive coach and facilitator, she has worked with global corporations, local private companies and start-ups, delivering leadership development programs for middle & senior managers. Her management experience in a large matrix organization enables her to relate to the issues and challenges faced by her clients at their own level, and to help expand their perspectives while guiding them through a process of self-discovery, making conscious choices and taking meaningful actions.

She is also a steering committee member of the Shanghai Coaching Circle, a non-profit organization providing a knowledge sharing platform for professionals active in the field of coaching.
